

THAW TREMBLES AS HE QUILTS STAND AFTER BRIEF QUESTIONING

OPPOSITION SPRINGS BIG SURPRISE AT SANITY TRIAL OF FAMOUS SLAYER

Among the attorneys for Thaw, they were not prepared for the testimony given by the witness, which was granted.

Realization that he had secured cross-examination caused Thaw to tremble. He looked appealingly at Mr. Patterson, who escorted him from the stand. Thaw moved his face as he started back to his seat. He seemed to lose his strength and was helped back to his chair.

"It's all right, Harry," were Mr. Patterson's soothing words. The lawyer then turned to Judge Buchanan and said:

"We rest our case, Mrs. Thaw. It is at her hotel, but we ask to reserve the right to call her later."

Counsel opposed to Thaw's release then announced they would open their side of the case after recess.

Miss Nash arrived from Atlanta City during the recess, but left away from the courtroom. It was decided not to call on her to testify and she at once returned to Atlantic City.

MY RECALL THAW.

The failure of Jackson and Gray to take advantage of his offer appeared to puzzle Mr. Patterson at the moment. It had been freely predicted that Gray, a noted cross-examiner, had been brought into the

Money Will Prove Thaw Is Sane, Says Evelyn

Philadelphia, Pa., April 17 (U.S.)—Evelyn Nash, divorced wife of Harry K. Thaw, today asserted that the outcome of the present effort to prove he is sane is almost "a foregone conclusion."

"Money can do a great deal," she said. "It is just like a Thaw trial. They have ample funds and are always able to produce twenty or thirty witnesses, so the outcome is nearly always a foregone conclusion."

"I know Harry Thaw better than anyone else," she declared. "He has not been cured."

For the purpose of bringing down Thaw's claim to sanity.

Evelyn, however, explained that Gray's opportunity is not yet lost because counsel opposed to Thaw have the right during the presentation of their case to recall him.

"Why should he have suggested Thaw's trial, after the manner?" she asked. "He had nothing to say."

"We had nothing to say," Judge Patterson began. "Thaw would have been cured and his sanity would have been proved."

"It was disappointed they did not get finished with the other witnesses yesterday," Thaw said when he arrived in court today.

LET JURY MEN SPEAK.

"I would have liked to have taken the stand. I want to testify and let the jury men judge of my mental condition for themselves."

Mr. Charles S. Potts, Philadelphia, the first witness called to testify for Thaw, who was under cross-examination when court adjourned yesterday, again took the stand today. In his direct testimony Dr. Potts said he found Thaw normal in every respect.

Dr. Potts was asked many questions regarding normal questions, and different types of insanity.

"In determining a man's sanity, do you usually judge the future by the past?" Mr. Dickinson asked.

"Generally yes. But it is possible

Thaw's Spirit Crushed as He Quits Stand

Philadelphia, April 17.—Harry K. Thaw walked slowly and deliberately to the witness stand at his sanity trial today. A picture of confidence. A man eager to tell his story, he seemed, almost strutting a bit during that short walk. He was asked five questions by his own counsel; then the opposition counsel said:

"We have no questions."

A simple statement, but it hurt Harry Thaw. His jaw falling, his eyes filling, almost crying openly he stepped slowly from his chair.

He took a step out of the witness box, slipped, staggered. He almost collapsed.

Judge Patterson leaped to his feet and grasped his client's slumping shoulders. Thaw, a bewildered, broken man, slumped wearily into a seat.

For an instant Thaw seemed to recover his sanity.

"Would not his conviction to show that if he were to be released," the attorney asked.

"I hardly think of it. It is a good deal older now and a man usually settles down about his age."

QUIZZED ON GUNP CASE.

"After Dr. Mills is reviewed and you said Thaw acted down in the attempted suicide and threatened the Gang but, how do you reconcile your view with these facts?" Mr. Jackson asked.

"I don't know," Dr. Potts replied.

Mr. Dickinson asked that, assuming Thaw did commit the practice with which he is charged might he not repeat them if released?

"Yes, there is a possibility of his repeating them, but less likelihood because of his more mature years," said Dr. Potts.

"What is your explanation of the 'Gang Incident'?" asked Mr. Dickinson.

"I can't explain it," was the reply. "I think the day was his privilege and misadventure."

"If it anything to do with abnormally," the attorney asked.

"I don't know. It may be that Thaw only punished the boy for bad behavior."

"You won't say that the Gang episode is not an indication of abnormality?"

"I won't," Dr. Potts replied.

Thaw Insane, Is Belief of William Travers Jerome

New York, April 17.—William Travers Jerome, who as District Attorney of New York County prosecuted Harry K. Thaw for the murder of Stanford White, today expressed the opinion that Thaw was insane despite testimony to the contrary of witnesses in Philadelphia.

Jerome, who was largely responsible for committing Thaw to the Manhattan Asylum for the Insane, returned from a three weeks' trip to Europe.

The witnesses who testified at Thaw's court attempt to regain sanity, did not disprove his insanity, Mr. Jerome said. These manifestations were produced only when the insane person was mentally tired.

It was peculiarly hard to detect these conditions, he said, when the person in question had had extensive experience with physicians and court procedure.

When of phonographs—and "we draw possibilities from the records, but none from radio."

Chairman Ernst called attention to one song, sales of which had increased tremendously after it was broadcast.

"But that was a good song," explained Mr. Buck. "It meant it had good points outside of any radio appeal."

Charges that the authors' and composers' society comprised a monopoly was denied by Buck.

Vincent Herbert, vice-president of the society, said the situation threatening the company was illustrated by the experience of his own grand father, who created dozens of popular songs which are still sung today—but he never derived a cent from them.

He mentioned one song of his own which he said is broadcast eight or ten times a day. "No one will buy a copy of that song now," he declared.

C. Mills, also an official of the society, argued that the radio use of songs violated the specific right given in the copyright law.

"The broadcasters come with the song," he said. "The advertiser we get in full satisfaction for our equity. They advertise us to death."

Mills said the radio is keeping ten million people at home. "It cuts' come with clean hands," he said. "But the radio audience is a just—but it will be neutral—radio for its entertainment."

tantly will criticize it," said Goodwin. Judge Bacon, when court opened, declared he saw no reason why Goodwin should be called to the stand. He changed his mind, however, when it became evident that the attorney for the accused man wanted some assurance that Goodwin would sing his criticisms.

"Have you a power beyond that gives you these statements?" demanded Attorney Dallas.

"TRY TO GET IT REGISTERED."

"I have not."

"Have you discussed these criticisms with the Governor?"

Mr. Goodwin refused to answer.

After ATTY. Bailey found himself unable to obtain even the slightest intimation from the witness that he would let up in his attacks on him, he resorted to his last note: vehicle came, Goodwin was excused from the stand.

Attorney Bailey then asked that the trial be postponed. In the meantime an effort would be made to get in touch with the governor and attorney general in an effort to gag the critics.

The court announced a decision on the motion would be handed down tomorrow.

SEARLES SUIT SETTLED BY LAWYERS

Secret Agreement Made in Judge Curtis' Bill for $325,000 Fees

Mrs. Searles is accepted $149,669 against a bond of $100,000. The largest part of his claim, however, is for his services in finding Michael Angelo Ellison, former Greek elevator operator, who was wanted as a witness by Searles to contest the will of his uncle, Edward F. Searles, millionaire rebus of Methuen, Mass.

Searles, to whom was left only $250,000 in the will, settled with his uncle's former secretary and chief lawyer for $412,000. Curtis said it was largely because of his discovery of Ellison, to whom the uncle wrote a number of affectionate letters, that the nephew was able to effect a settlement.

During its reading a stir was caused in court by a letter said in Searles' handwriting and sent in the following terms:

"I miss you so much. You were away so long and I am now a picture of myself in a snow bank. You makes me look like a night mister is well, but I wish you here to run about the grassy fields with me as we used to."

BABIES' MIXUP IS CAUSE OF MOURNING

Names Twisted at Mission, and Wrong Parents Are Notified of Death

New York, April 17.—Mrs. and Mrs. Charles L. Shumart got their baby back today, and Mrs. and Mrs. Vincent Fiorillo mourned the death of a son, as the result of a mixup at St. Barnabas House, City Mission, which Thelma Attorney Barton said was one of the strangest cases of mistaken identity he had ever investigated.

The head of the City Mission and the nurses at St. Barnabas were reported to have admitted there had been an error in recording the death of 2-month-old Charles C. Shumart last March 6. Instead, Joseph Fiorillo was the child who died on that date. But Shumart, informed that the baby was his son, paid for the funeral.

The Fiorillo child had been sent to St. Barnabas House, a charitable institution, to be cared for pending the intended arrival of another baby at the Fiorillo home.

Mrs. Fiorillo wouldn't accept the child returned to her some days later. It wasn't her Joseph, she said.

MRS. WALLACE PAINTED AS INSIDENT, FLIPPANT AND DARING

RICH WIDOW FLUSHES AS LAWYER FOR MRS. BRADSTREET SUMS UP AT TRIAL

"There is not a woman in New England who has such intelligence, daring, flippancy and arrogance as this woman, since her sudden rise to wealth."

The face of Mrs. Alice F. Wallace, New Hampshire's richest widow, flushed a deep red and she made a "weak, old, rich" noise as William A. Morse pointed toward her today in Superior Court, during his final argument for the plaintiff in the $250,000 "Never Had Ten Cents" suit brought against her by Mrs. Laura Bradstreet of Bay State road.

"She knows more in one minute than Bradstreet will ever know," the lawyer continued, and Harry S. Bradstreet, Boston broker, whose affidavit the widow is alleged to have attempted, shifted uneasily in his seat as she was described.

PLAYED AS YANDY.
Seated beside her mother, Mrs. Robert Sweet, Jr., of Needham, daughter of the widow, with whom she has stood staunchly during the trial, pulled nervously at her fingers as Mrs. Wallace, known as a "yandey" as "the bold-faced widow" and as "a rich, insolent, arrogant woman."

In speaking of this woman we are not talking of a young girl who in a moment of affection, has been turned into a woman, as the lawyer said. "We are speaking of a woman of more than fifty years, a divorcee and a widow."

"We are speaking of a woman who has a brain that cannot be compared with that of Bradstreet."

"You never will find happiness when a woman of fifty insists on having a young husband of another woman with her all the time. There is not a decent woman who has a spark of humor in her soul that insists upon the companionship of the husband of an unhappy wife."

"NEVER HAD TEN CENTS"
The lawyer described how she met Bradstreet. "Bradstreet," he said, "who never had ten cents in his life, Bradstreet, the book of Gibraltar."

"When Bradstreet and Mrs. Wallace went into her wonderful mansion at York Beach, the doors were closed and neither his wife nor anyone else could get in or had a chance to know what went on within those walls."

Harry S. Bradstreet, who is the plaintiff in the $250,000 suit, declared Attorney Morse during his final argument for the defense in the $250,000 suit.

The case was expected to go to the jury before night.

"There has been an attempt to throw an atmosphere of great wealth around Mrs. Wallace in this case," declared Attorney Morse, "but would she have anything to do with the case?"

If Mrs. Wallace is guilty, she should be made to pay, even if it takes her last dollar, and if not, of course, she should be freed and her name cleared.

NOT EQUAL TO CHANCE.
Mr. Bradstreet had the chance of a lifetime. He had an opportunity to use Mrs. Wallace's securities with out any chance of a loss of his own. What an opportunity that was for him! No risk on his part, and 50 per cent. profit on anything that might be made on her securities. If nothing was made he still had his $100,000 a year to fall back on.

"That was a wonderful opportunity both for him and his wife to work hand in hand, but the trouble was that neither of them was equal to the opportunity that was before them."

"Mrs. Wallace did not use good business judgment in hiring Mr. Bradstreet, because she took him on face value without investigating his record or his business ability. But that is just the way that women who are left property are run every day in the year. They

TAKEN ON FACE VALUE.
"Mrs. Wallace had never heard of Mr. Bradstreet until a bond salesman told her that Mr. Bradstreet, a man in his office, was a big man who knew everything about bonds and who drew $25,000 a year for giving advice."

"That was the only introduction she had to Mr. Bradstreet. She did not investigate him, but took him at his own value."

In addition to her daughter, others who testified to having seen nothing wrong in Mrs. Wallace's relations with the broker, included Dr. and Mrs. F. L. Key, Edward L. Sherry, hardware dealer, and Erlon East, lumber dealer, all of Rochester, N. H.; Elmer W. Akers, the widow's chauffeur, and his wife, Robert Sweet, Jr., son-in-law of Mrs. Wallace, and Miss Bertha Chapman, Brooklyn school teacher.

Final defense testimony in the case included testimony by Mrs. Akers, who is the daughter of Bradstreet and Mrs. Wallace on auto trips through the Adirondacks and Canada.

Mrs. Akers testified that she had observed nothing wrong on these trips and she shared Mrs. Wallace's room every night.

EMPLOYEES HURT FIGHTING BLAZE IN WATERTOWN

Chemicals Exploded in Cloth Waterproofing Plant; Loss $15,000; Other Fires

A number of employees of the Watertown Co. cloth waterproofers, who were severely burned by chemicals today while fighting a fire that destroyed a chemical storage tank in the plant in Stanley avenue, Watertown.

Chemicals stored in the structure exploded and enlarged the fire. The fire was extinguished by firemen from Belmont, Newton and Watertown.

After the local fire alarm system failed to function, the loss of buildings and contents is set at $15,000.

Fires in Manchester, Lyndford, North Reading, Lexington and Duxbury had left more than 100 persons homeless today, destroyed many buildings and threatened others, and had a number of acres of woods on fire.

The mill town of Manchester was swept by a $400,000 fire that left the homeless in twenty-three families and destroyed St. Anne's Catholic Church, convent and rectory in its sweep. The fire started from an electric short in the garage of Joseph Canale in Main street.

In Lyndford three cottages and five small garages were destroyed in the Phillips Ford section by a forest fire that burned over 100 acres of timberland. Many residents saved their homes by leaving them down with water from garden hose and buckets.

A fire that burned over three square miles of woodland in North Reading was fought throughout the night by firemen and men of the Lyndford, North Reading and Duxbury fire departments.

Five brush fires that burned a total of thirty acres in Lexington and Concord kept the fire fighters busy for three hours.

At Roxbury a shift of wind saved the Summer home of Edward W. Putnam of the Necessaries of Life from the ravages of the first fire that destroyed more than 50 acres of timberland in the Hill section. Firemen from Marshfield, Haverhill and Kingston, aided the Roxbury fire fighters.

Gives Up Luxury

MARION PIERCE
Brookline actress who has renounced luxury, is seen here from home because, she says, a colored maid was the dominating influence there, has gone to work in a Boston department store.

Marion Pierce, Brookline's runaway heiress, has come to work for a living.

The girl, who created a sensation and built up a tawdry mystery on long ago by leaving Brookline for Salem, hiding herself away in a hotel found employment in a Boston department store.

"I want to be my own boss and live my own life," Miss Pierce said today.

"It may seem peculiar that any girl would give up a life of luxury to go out into the working-world, but I am tired of eating bread that has not earned and of having to turn to somebody else every time I need a dollar."

Miss Pierce lived with her foster mother at No. 43 Dand street, where she was found in Salem, at the time of her recent disappearance, she complained that a colored maid was the dominating figure in her Brookline home, and vowed that she would return until this maid had left.

TWO GIRLS HELD AS SUSPECTS IN ROBBERY HOST

Broker Lewis, Harvard Strong Man, Says He Lost Property at Office Party

Two young women are being held by the Boston police because Kenneth H. Lewis, broker of Pineknoll street, declares that after a party in his office, and after he had given them $1000 in cash, they robbed him.

Lewis, who at Harvard, established a reputation as "strong man" which has since stood at the institution.

The women arrested are Eva Carroll, 28, of No. 63 Humboldt avenue, Dorchester, and Florence Morris, 28, of No. 11 Worcester street, South End. A few nicknacks which Lewis claims was stolen and which he said was worth $1000 to him was recovered in the home of one of the girls.

According to the story Lewis told the police, he met the girls in a restaurant on Washington street and after the three admitted to robbing him at No. 4 Liberty square. A party was staged, and Lewis says he wrote two checks for the girls, one for $250 and another for $250.

Five-month girl took one of these checks to the Office Party. Held in the police station and released, returned to the Office some time later.

Just before the party broke up, Lewis says he discovered the girl, a silver flash, and his expensive wrist watch were missing.

Among other things Lewis confessed to the girls, according to the police, was the fact that he was the only man holding a United States permit to export liquor.

The women were before Judge Sullivan in Municipal Court today. They were each held in $1000 until April 25.

MY DAUGHTER WOULD CRY AT EVERYTHING

Nervous and Irritable. By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Became Entirely Normal

Clinton, Wisconsin.—My daughter was in a very run-down condition, was irritable, and would cry at every little thing she was so weak and nervous. As Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped me when I was a girl, I gave it to her to build her up, and the results were all that we could wish for. I wish that every mother with growing girls would try it for these troubles girls often have. I had taken it myself before my girl was born, and she was one of the most babies any one could wish to have. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to women and girls and cannot praise it too highly.

Mrs. I. A. HOFFMAN, Box 48, Clinton, Wisconsin.

Mothers can depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve their daughters of these troubles they so often have. They know from experience the value of the Vegetable Compound in the treatment of these complaints and many, like Mrs. Hoffmann, give it to their daughters.

A recent census reports that out of every 100 women are benefited by

3 BANDITS GRAB ARMOUR PAY IN MAIL

Robbers Get Five Sacks of Registered Mail in Daring Holdup at St. Paul

St. Paul, Minn., April 17.—Three bandits held up a postal clerk and messenger at the Chicago, Great Western Depot at South St. Paul today and escaped with five pouches of mail, containing $50,000 in currency and a large quantity of registered mail.

The robbery occurred just after a train had unloaded the five pouches, one of which contained the $50,000 payroll for Armour & Co.'s South St. Paul plant.

As the pouches were being loaded on to a truck, the bandits drew up in an automobile, two sprang out with drawn revolvers, forcing the two postal employees to surrender the bags.

FIRE AT BRIGHTON OUSTS 2 FAMILIES

Two families were driven out of a house estimated at $1,000 resulted from a fire today at No. 5, Ricker terrace, Brighton. The building is a two-story wooden structure.

On the first floor, where the fire started, lives the family of Thomas H. Hildner. The second floor is occupied by Charles Dinn, owner of the building. The flames spread throughout the first floor, but quick work by firemen kept the fire from reaching the lower apartment. The cause is undetermined.

ALEXANDER BRIN SPEAKS AT B. U.

Jewish students of Boston University College of Business Administration were urged in an address today by Alexander Brin, editor of the Jewish Advocate, "to see to it, by participation in all worthy movements, that Judaism shall be perpetuated."

Speaking as the Passover, under the auspices of the Menorah Society, Mr. Brin urged Jews "who cry out at the disintegration of that rich and many-sided Jewish heritage subjects them."

It was admitted that such action would give great impetus to the sale of such articles made in America.

It is indicated that the title of the duty might mean the end of the British industry.

A Health Beauty talk by the Health Doctor

I WANT to talk about two things:

Why children need protection... How Lifebuoy

Health Soap protects their health and good looks.

If you could watch the average healthy child throughout an entire day, you would be horrified, about once every ten minutes, at the germ-covered things they touch and the dirt dangers to which they are exposed.

Thank goodness their robust, splendidly nourished little bodies can fight off the germ menace most of the time. Otherwise they could not live.

But the danger is always there. Science knows but one real every-day protection—perfect cleanliness. Your children have a good chance of never being sick if you can only train them to purify hands and faces frequently with Lifebuoy.

Only healthy skin is beautiful

Let me tell you about Lifebuoy. In the first place, it is absolutely pure soap. It contains no substance which could irritate the most sensitive skin. Its constant use promotes skin health and brings the lovely underglow of a radiant complexion.

The gentle antiseptic released in the creamy copious lather is just what your skin needs to keep it splendidly alive—stimulated. It drives away dullness and blemishes, leaving the skin soft, smooth and healthfully beautiful.

You soon become fond of the odor of the antiseptic; it gives you such a comfort of feeling; it brings genuinely, utterly clean. This odor disappears almost instantly.

For the protection of the family and the daily care of the skin use Lifebuoy. Children always like it. Once a man gets to know it you simply can't get him to use anything else.

And it will agree wonderfully with your skin—I promise

The Health Doctor

The Health Doctor
says—

Lifebuoy is absolutely pure.

Its invaluable quality is the gentle antiseptic released in the creamy copious lather.

It leaves the skin sweet, deodorized—and safe.

It agrees with your skin

"The gentlest, most effective, most valuable of all skin protectors."

The lawless, reckless, and desperate life of the Boston slayer, John Joseph Hurlburt, who was shot and killed last night, was a life of constant struggle and fear. He was a man who strove without fear or hope of reward, and his death was a tragedy for the city.

Boston is strong for the Red Sox it seems. In spite of the chilly atmosphere, a crowd of 7,500 turned out for the second game of the series with the Yankees and this time they left Fenway Park happy.

B. C. CRUSHES NORTHEASTERN BY 22-0 SCORE IN OPENER

Eddie Mullooney, Boston College sophomore, pitched airtight ball for the first six innings of yesterday's 22 to 0 slugfest against Northeastern. It was the Eagle's opening game, and the heavy hitters piled up the largest score made by a Maroon and Gold ball team in three years.

Mullooney was downed only once, and that was in the eighth. He was hit by a home run, but he was not out. The B. C. team never opened a season more auspiciously. They played a ball with both pitchers getting all the support in the world was necessary. Brooks, however, was the only opponent who reached first.

Brooks played without an error, but the leading of the Eagle was a matter of fact. The Eagle heavy hitters got to Brooks in the third when a single, a base and two errors brought in Foley, Doherty and Wilson. Two more runs, a single and a hit of Doherty, in the fourth, the B. C. eastern hitters are and a double by Foley in the fifth.

B. C. added another in the fourth, and two in the sixth. The big inning was the seventh. It was a 10-run inning. B. C. has with the result, it was very much on the team today at Fenway.

Mullooney led a game that placed him in the lead in the league, and it is more than probable, according to Coach Mullooney himself, that he will start next year's season on the July 1st afternoon.

Creighton, a well-known Boston pitcher, was out. He was hit by a home run, but he was not out. He was hit by a home run, but he was not out. He was hit by a home run, but he was not out.

Seething Life of a Lovely Boston Girl of This Strange Today

"AIN'T I good to you?"

Aloud she melted through her soft, happy relief, a her, sunny attitude, just that he was there. Oh, let him have his way wherever he pleased! Let him Moore smile at him! Only that he returned—only that he came back, held her hand, laughing down at her.

It was a soft, sunny day, and she was sitting on the porch, looking out at the garden. The roses were in full bloom, and the air was warm and fragrant. She was thinking of the man who had just left her, and how he had looked at her with such a smile. She was so happy, so content, that she almost forgot to breathe.

She was so happy, so content, that she almost forgot to breathe. She was so happy, so content, that she almost forgot to breathe. She was so happy, so content, that she almost forgot to breathe.

WAYS OF A HUSBAND

By Ann Lisle

When you wouldn't have a husband, you wouldn't have a husband. When you wouldn't have a husband, you wouldn't have a husband. When you wouldn't have a husband, you wouldn't have a husband.

When you wouldn't have a husband, you wouldn't have a husband. When you wouldn't have a husband, you wouldn't have a husband. When you wouldn't have a husband, you wouldn't have a husband.

When you wouldn't have a husband, you wouldn't have a husband. When you wouldn't have a husband, you wouldn't have a husband. When you wouldn't have a husband, you wouldn't have a husband.

When you wouldn't have a husband, you wouldn't have a husband. When you wouldn't have a husband, you wouldn't have a husband. When you wouldn't have a husband, you wouldn't have a husband.

When you wouldn't have a husband, you wouldn't have a husband. When you wouldn't have a husband, you wouldn't have a husband. When you wouldn't have a husband, you wouldn't have a husband.

16,000 SUICIDES IN YEAR; JAZZ CAUSES MOST

New York, April 15.—Placing the number of deaths by suicide in the United States last year at between 15,000 and 16,000, Dr. Harry M. Wiener, president of the National League, in his annual report, attributes the majority of deaths to self-destruction to the "vice spirit of the times" and the failure of many people to love and themselves in the face of the children, and the failure of many people to love and themselves in the face of the children, and the failure of many people to love and themselves in the face of the children.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

Mr. Forbes will be in Boston from April 21 until April 25. During that time he will fill several special assignments, and come in close contact with the New England problems of business and finance.

Business is sadder than it was a year ago.

It has, however, been less active. But this condition may shortly change.

The business community is in their children about income. Most of us are never so happy as when a boom is on. A year ago optimism was rampant. There was a scramble for goods, prices were rising, labor was scarce and the stock market had been enjoying quite a run in the early part of the year.

Those, however, who try to look forward, find their nose, were sounding words of caution. It was plain to them that the boom could not go on and on. Inflation was being invited. Buyers were overdone, more than could be generally sold. Purchasing was outrunning consumption.

There was clear to anyone who really studied the position that a recession was inevitable.

Today the position is entirely different. It is distinctly a recovery.

The country has gone through the depression period, which was inevitable after the boom of last year. It has been forced by the clearing demands of buyers, stockholders, and bondholders to drop 8 per cent in the four months of April, May, June and July of last year.

Recovery followed, but the decline was not so great as the recovery. It continued during the first quarter of this year.

But the downward movement about over.

Are there signs of a recovery?

Professor Irving Fisher's compilation, widely regarded as authoritative, shows a slight advance in prices for last week. This is the first advance recorded since the beginning of February. But the report shows a substantial smaller proportion of decline to advance than in last month.

How do commodity prices now compare with those of a year ago? Here are representative figures:

Everyone admits that business has been constricted for the last month all along the line month after month.

What would happen should anything occur to bring buyers into the market in large numbers?

The logic of the whole position would seem to be that there is a distinct possibility for both commodities and security prices to advance substantially in the next few months, particularly in the latter.

Henry Hurlburt Is Dead

And Massachusetts Mourns the Passing of a Great Soul, a Great Mind and a Great Community Conscience

"Thus doth conscience make cowards of us all," is a quotation of doubtful value.

Conscience made a great man of Henry Hurlburt, who died late yesterday afternoon. It made him brave. It made him patient and it made him take upon his shoulders the championship of this whole community with no hope for public reward.

When you think of the courts of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts as the high example of dignity, probity, justice and mercy to be held in reverence by all the world you must think of Henry Hurlburt as their shining knight.

Into the balance he threw the last crowded hours of his brilliant life. He gave the last full measure of his time, his income, his personal comfort and his health.

Only his intimates know something of that other chance he took. For truth, crushed to earth, may rise too slowly at times to repair in the public eye the foul wrongs of error.

Henry Hurlburt faced the same sinister threats of the black mail victims he championed.

He never faltered. The very courage of this man of flame . . . dedicated to public service carried him through in triumph where more timid souls had faltered.

And when the revolution came that shook our judicial system to its very foundations, Henry Hurlburt, whose hours of patient, brave knight errantry had slain the dragon, slipped aside to give to others the crown that rightfully belonged to him.

In other columns you may read the story of his romantic rise, of his wit, his profundity, his eloquence and of his charm; of his public spirit in conducting the city bonding inquiry without pay, of the auto theft evil and later in the preparation and the prosecution of the cases that cleaned up Middlesex and Suffolk Counties.

For us it is enough to think of Henry Hurlburt as the undying monument to the Conscience of the Community.

$5,000,000 for Palestine Constructive Work

It Will Mean an Object Lesson and Education for the Rest of the World

The effort that Jews in the United States have undertaken and which they will carry through—as they usually carry through their undertakings—is to raise $5,000,000 for constructive work in Palestine. It is an admirable undertaking of the widest interest.

Contributing to this work means more than contributing to the task of rebuilding Palestine, making fertile once more lands that had great fertility in the old days, establishing a place where Jews that choose to do so can establish themselves in their old country to live by their own work and intelligence.

The man who contributes to that five million dollar Palestine fund is contributing to important scientific experiments that will be of value to the whole earth.

Tens of thousands of square miles have lost their fertility in Mesopotamia, as well as in Palestine, in every part of the world where desert sands blown by the wind have gradually encroached upon fertile territory and where erosion has taken away fertile soil.

The picture of Palestine today as it contrasts with the beautiful, fertile Palestine of two thousand years ago, is a picture duplicated all over the earth's surface.

The problem that the constructive workers in Palestine must face and overcome is the problem that meets us in our Western deserts, the problem that, when solved, will provide fertile homes for millions in the desert lands of Africa and Asia.

The man contributing to this Palestine fund contributes to an increase of world knowledge and to the noblest war, the only really GOOD WAR ever waged on this earth, which is the war of man and science AGAINST NATURE.

Those of the Jewish race, whose feeling for Palestine is that of the Scotchman for Scotland, the Irishman for Ireland, the Frenchman for France, the German for Germany and the Italian for Italy, will take deep, intense pleasure in contributing to the building and reconstruction of Palestine in all its old glory, under modern conditions.

In addition, he will find satisfaction in the fact that the money he gives is well spent—first, in a spirit of loyalty to his own race; second, and equally gratifying perhaps, in the widest spirit of world-wide public service and scientific experiment.

There will be no trouble collecting among the Jews the five million dollars required, for to give is an honor, and the Jews have never been slow in their giving.

A New Ticker

Radio, Life's Salt

There is a new idea in Stock Exchange tickers. The prices are photographed on a film, the quotations are flashed on a screen, so that everybody in the Stock Exchange can see them at the same moment. Good idea.

If you could put on the OUTSIDE of the Stock Exchange, for the benefit of the public, a daylight moving picture that would show how the stock ticker insiders move prices up or down, and what happens to foolish little lambs that gamble, that would be a VERY valuable educational use of the screen.

Herbert Hoover shows common sense opposing a tax on radio receivers. Radio, like the moving picture, is a part of modern education, and it combines scientific with other education. A tax on modern knowledge would be as foolish as the old tax on doors and windows that kept air and sunlight from the people, or the gobble, the oppressive tax on salt. Radio is the salt of life today.

Tight Hats Make Bald Heads

By T. E. Power

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

I'M going to print it just as it came to me, address and all. I don't know Sally Gold, or whatever her name may be, but I'm banking on her strong. Sally happens to be talking about conditions on Broadway. But she might as well be talking about conditions on any Main street from here to the Russian steppes. That's why I like her letter. It's your problem and mine as well as Sally's.

"New York City.
"Dear Elsie Robinson:
"My husband and I never miss an article of yours, and the pleasure is all ours.
"Therefore we are going to ask a favor—that is, to write your opinion on the following subject or discussion:
"A lady who has been in business on Broadway insists that 90 per cent. of the public lead immoral lives, and she judges from experience.
"My husband, who has been on Broadway all his life, argued that, judging from his experience, he found 90 per cent. of the people to lead good, clean lives.
"Everyone present agreed with the lady, ridiculing the man. Now kindly give us your opinion and receive the heartfelt thanks of
"SALLY GOLD."

Well, Sally, I'm not doing business on Broadway. Mine's a somewhat larger thoroughfare. My trade address is Elsie Robinson, Unlimited—the U. S. A. And believe me, girl, I know my selling territory. I've got to know it. No fake stuff in mine. If I don't know what Bill has for lunch and why, and how he got to the matinee and with whom Jim drives after supper and where Nellie does her morning—if I don't know these vital statistics, why, little Elsie will stop eating, pronto. So you can safely bet all the money in the baby's bank that I know my U. S. A. at least as well as your lady knows her Broadway, and I pray a whole lot better.

AND I'M RIGHT HERE TO TELL YOU THAT 90 PER CENT. OF THE PEOPLE OF THESE UNITED STATES ARE STRAIGHT GOODS, A YARD WIDE AND THOROUGHLY ANTI-SEPTIC.

I have known vicious people—lots of 'em. I have that deep desire so often found in sweet, fine, gentle, modest women, to learn as much as I can about all sorts of naughty things and still not be found out. Never, as far as I know, have I passed up a good opportunity to hear or see something I shouldn't. But take it from me, Sally, the pickings are poor. If you want to wallow in this country, you've got to work mighty hard and generally manufacture your own sty.

Most folks are decent. Most folks like their homes and their families and their jobs. Most folks are generous and friendly and hard-working. They may fib a little now and then; they may snicker over a dirty story; they may pretend to have a little affair with the strong or the lady who lives down by the service station; and they may blow a lot about their bad pasts. But, come Sunday, they're there on the old overstuffed sofa, with their feet in slippers and their heads in the colored supplement, reading scandal while the Misses cooks the Sunday dinner. And there's a very good reason for it all. A life of sin looks very exciting on the silver screen and listens like a dream of Paradise, when the house is all full of in-laws and the three kids are down with the measles. But as a steady job, there's nothing to it. It costs a lot and pays no dividends. It raises hob with your nerves and pocketbook. It takes about 100 per cent. more health, wealth and shape than most of us possess. We may not seem a very romantic reason for the decency of the American people, but it's the true reason, nevertheless. So just show that to your lady from Broadway and tell her that her pipe dream sounds immense, but they're still laundering the Stars and Stripes with good old soap and water.

DR. FRANK CRANE ON SCHOOLMASTER'S PRAYER

By Dr. Frank Crane

MY GOD, first of all, let me learn of Thee, and to teach them under my charge as Thou teachest all Thy creatures.

That is, let me lead them to be just because I am just, wise because I am wise, great because I am great.

And, if their keen eyes see that I do fall short in these qualities, let them also perceive that I recognize my shortcomings, that I pretend not to virtues I do not possess and that I honestly strive to improve.

My God, let me study Thy methods and imitate them. As Thou dost bring all life to its possible perfection by growth, let me duly value the element of time in my pupils and endeavor rather to guide them to maturity than to force them to perfection.

Teach me Thy noble disdain of Force and Thy shrewd indirection; that I may always induce and never resort to the weakness of compulsion.

Let me be a Gardener of Souls and not a mere Merchant of Facts.

Imbue me with Thy patience that I may thoroughly learn the supreme art of teaching, which is to Wait.

Let me see every pupil of mine as a Candle of the Lord and know that my business is to light him.

May I stimulate curiosity and feed it.

Show me how to handle Fear and turn it into Courage, to make the weak will strong, to cure indifference and transform it into ambition, to shame self-pity into self-confidence.

Give me the love of my pupils, for without love there is no teachableness.

Give me strength and that gentleness which is the garment of strength; and preserve me from weakness, and from petulance and tyranny which are the signs of weakness.

Give me so mature a mind that I shall have a sense of values, that I may distinguish between essential and non-essential, and that I may not magnify little things.

Give me a wise blindness to the faults of exuberance and a wise evaluation of enthusiasm.

Make me sympathetic with youth, that I may not criticize as evil what is nothing but immaturity.

Teach me never to resort to the folly of reward and punishment, but to recognize that every human being wants to learn, wants to be strong and wants to be right; and show me how to uncover and to develop these wants.

Let me never forget the profits of my calling, and that the greatest wealth one can gain in this world is the property right he clears in souls.

Invest me with the true dignity of my office, that I may always have a proper pride in knowing that mine is the highest of all callings, and that no man's business is nobler than his whose office it is to guide and mould the unfolding mind.

Keep me humble that I may continue to learn while I teach. May I strive not so much to be called Master as to be a Master, not to show authority so much as to have authority. And give me that joy in my work, that exaltation in my privilege and that satisfaction in my service that comes from the knowledge that, of all human occupations, that of teaching is most like the business of God Himself.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON IMMORTALITY

By Garrett P. Serviss.

Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

MR. J. W. FAGER of New Orleans writes me: "Your article on 'Mind and Body' involves thoughts that have been coming to me for years. I have been looking for a way to connect them."

You say that the independence of the mind from physical and chemical forces is an argument for immortality. Too long for immortality. But how about early mentality? It does not appear until we are about four years of age. It is separate and distinct from physical and chemical forces, why is it not present at birth? This absence of early mentality almost blights the hope of immortality.

WHY may not the mind lie dormant in the infant's brain? It must wait for the development of the physical mechanism that it is to employ during the terrestrial career; and it may help to develop it. One thing that all nature teaches us is that time is an essential element in every manifestation of life.

It may be, too, too, as you yourself suggest in another part of your letter, that the mind grows with the growth and aggregation of the brain cells. It has its own period of infancy. It has to learn to handle its tools. It has to acquire itself to preserve its surroundings through the fragmentary impressions that it gets from the five or six poor bodily senses that are placed at its disposal.

It must learn to look out of the prison windows that we call eyes, which give but a glimmer of prospect compared with the free range of pure, unhampered and unlimited intelligence. It must learn to interpret the physical means of sound, light, touch, taste, odor in the nostrils, touches felt by hands and skin. Don't let your hope of immortality be blighted. Science does not, and never can, destroy it.
